Raleigh, North Carolina
Adaptive Reuse: Residential Property

- Restored to original 1924 appearance
- Reflects neighborhood aesthetic
- Single Unit Dwelling
- Front Parking

Indianapolis, Indiana
Adaptive Reuse: Residential Property

- Modified architecture
- Restored as single-family home in Martindale on the Monon neighborhood

Indianapolis, Indiana
Adaptive Reuse: Business Office

- Exterior restored to original 1896 construction
- Currently Angie’s List headquarters
- Three-story office space
Ogden, Utah

Adaptive Reuse: Residential Property

- Restored to original 1927 appearance
- Reflects neighborhood aesthetic
- Single Unit Dwelling
- Front Parking

!Photo courtesy of Standard Examiner

---

Seattle, Washington

Adaptive Reuse: Mixed-use Retail

- Unique, historic building features
- Neighborhood-oriented
- Shared business space

!Photo courtesy of the City of Seattle

---

Fairhaven, Washington

Adaptive Reuse: Performing Arts Center

- Restored clay tile to original 1923 design
- Single garage door restored to two-bay design
- Event space
- Coffee bar

!Photo courtesy of Zervas Group
Ruston, Louisiana
Adaptive Reuse: Rental Event Venue

- Original fire poles
- Reflects neighborhood aesthetic
- Event venue primarily for weddings and business meetings

Indianapolis, Indiana
Adaptive Reuse: Residential Property

- Historically restored with a second level added
- Neighborhood-oriented

Lansing, Michigan
Adaptive Reuse: Residential Property

- Originally a 1920’s single family home
- Open and industrial concept
- Minor changes in floor and ceilings to define rooms